

Chris Mitchell

Profile

Chris Mitchell is a Senior Manager within AMEC Oil and Gas, having over 30 years of experience in the oil and gas industry. A British Chartered Engineer with an MBA, Chris has held positions in engineering, information management and project controls as well as working directorships and the managing director role with key organisations in the offshore industry's supply chain.

Chris has for the last 10 years been heavily involved in developing and implementing management systems and process improvement initiatives for EPCs on a series of projects which have covered both fixed and floating offshore installations. His impressive range of technical and managerial skills has allowed him to deliver significant benefits on many aspects of project execution including:

- Alliancing
- Team management
- Information Management, including Data Management, Document Management and Control
- Information Technology and CAD Management
- Estimating, Planning and Cost Control.